“LITTLE WORD, LITTLE WHITE BIRD”

“LITTLE WORD, LITTLE WHITE BIRD” by Carl Sandburg Love, is it a cat with claws and wild mate screams In the black night? Love, is it a bird - a goldfinch with a burnish On its wingtips, or a little gray sparrow Picking crumbs, hunting crumbs? Love, is it a free glad spender, ready to spend to The limit, and then go head over heels in debt?

LITTLE BIRD (We All Share One Home)

Little bird, little bird, oh, where did you go? You once flew these sandy shores and made them your home Now I see the mansions and manicured lawns I look for the little bird, but the little bird’s gone What we do to the little bird, we do to our own We are all bound together, we all share one home I once knew a crooked creek where orange
